STOCKS.

The whole line showed strength yesterday and there was a sharp advance at the north-end, Sierra Nevada and Union Con. leading. The outside stocks were prominent, Belvidere advancing to 4 1/2. Mount Potosi recovered, and Double Standard and Jupiter of the Bodies were in demand at increased rates, the last named stock taking a regular little boom and advancing to 2.60. Taken all through, Comstock and outsiders, the market was generally considered, a strong one. The improvement manifested in the first session continued in the second session. The entire market was strong, the north-end stocks being the points of interest.

CHANGE OF PROPRIETORS.—Mr. J. B. Proulx has bought out the blacksmith shop of Mr. John Gibeau, and will collect all bills due the late concern; he will not be responsible for the debts, however. Mr. Proulx is a competent and thorough workman in all departments of the trade, and by prompt attention to business will merit a fair share of patronage.

A STRAW.—The first "straw" of the season comes from the Grand Jury room. A vote on the Presidential candidates yesterday stood as follows: Blaine, 5; Grant, 4; Washburne, 3; Tilden, 2; Thurman, 1. All the Grand Jurors voted except Dunbar, who was undecided.

After Wednesday next the fare from Reno to New York will be $5 for second class passage and $25 for emigrants.

AUGUST EMIL WILHELMY.

A German friend has kindly furnished the APPEAL with a translation of the leading incidents in the life of the great violinist, August Emil Wilhelmy, the translation having been made from "Pierer's Conversations Lexikon," which is a standard German encyclopedia.

The family name is Wilhelmy, the over-joked "j" having been substituted for a "y" probably as an advertising dodge. August Emil Wilhelmy was born September 21, 1845, at Ausingen, a village near Wiesbaden, about one hour's ride from Frankfurt-on-the-Main, and almost in the heart of Germany. His father was a lawyer, and his mother, a highly cultured lady, was descended from a long and celebrated line of musicians. Young Wilhelmy received his first instruction in music at Wiesbaden, and made his first appearance in public in that city when only nine years old. Two years later (1856) he appeared at the Royal Theater in Wiesbaden, where he created a genuine sensation as one of the most promising of young violinists. In 1861 he attracted the attention of Liszt, the eminent composer and pianist, on whose advice young Wilhelmy entered the Conservatory of Music at Leipzig, remaining there from 1861 to 1864. He traveled through Switzerland, Holland and England, giving concerts, in the years 1865 and 1866. In 1867 he appeared in Paris and the principal cities of Italy. He played a long and highly successful musical engagement in St. Petersburg in 1868. In the years 1869-70 he reappeared in England, extending his tour through Ireland and Scotland. In 1871 he made the circuit of Holland, Sweden, Norway and Denmark. Wilhelmy made his greatest reputation as a musical director during the world-famous Wagner concerts at Bayreuth (1877). In the following year, 1878, Wilhelmy came to the United States, since which time his success has become a part of the musical history of our country.

THE SHOT-GUN RAFFLE.—The billiard-room of the Ormsby House was a scene of considerable excitement last night over the raffle for a shot-gun. The gun was a Parker breech-loader, and with the gun went a shell-belt and 150 shells. The chances were limited to 80. The tickets went off quite rapidly, as the gun was well worth $100, though second hand. The takers of chances met at 7 o'clock and shook dice on the billiard table. There must have been fifty men about the table watching the dancing cubes as if their lives depended on it. As the names were called off the men threw, and a particularly bad throw would be greeted with yells of derision from all sides. When T. B. Winston threw 19, the smallest throw of the evening, the propriety of evicting him from the room was seriously considered. L. L. Elrod finally scored forty, which was tied by J. E. Bean and E. D. McKinley. For the next fifteen minutes it was so quiet that you could have heard a spittoon drop anywhere in the room as throw after throw was made, each man endeavoring to beat 40.

THE WINNING THROW.

When the name of J. M. Hetrich of the Mint, was called he was not present, and young Chris Zabriskie threw for him, shaking out 16, 13, 12, making a total of 41. Probably no man in Carson wanted a shot-gun as much as Hetrich, and no one had less expectation of getting it. He arrived a few minutes later, treated everybody in sight and gave young Zabriskie $5 for doing so well. Hetrich has taken chances at raffles, ring cakes, church fairs and lottery drawings for years and never won anything before. He says the news almost paralyzed his mental faculties and he felt like a man in a dream. Each and every man who didn't win denounced raffles as humbugs and frauds, as every man who pays a dollar for a chance has a perfect right to do.

THE GRAND JURY UNDER WAY.—The following Committees on the Grand Jury were appointed by Foreman Helm yesterday:

To examine into the offices of County Auditor, Treasurer and Assessor: D. L. Bliss, J. E. Dealy and J. M. Benton.

To examine Sheriff's office and County Buildings: W. O. Broadhead, Dean Hatch and Peter Cavanaugh, Jr.

County Clerk—J. P. Meder, M. C. Gardner and N. M. Jellerson.

Precinct and city offices—D. G. Kitzmeyer, P. B. Ellis and J. Q. A. Moore.

To look into the matter of illicit sale of opium—N. Dunbar, J. H. Cheney, and James Spurgeon.

A COOK OUT OF LUCK.—A few nights since a man who manipulates the palatable slap-jack over the cooking range of one of the leading restaurants in this city visited a well known fashionable resort of Carson known as Big Pete's. Here he claims he was robbed of $55 by a strange female in whose honor and integrity he had the fullest confidence. He was at first determined to secure her arrest, but after more sober reflection concluded to let the matter drop. Times are hard and he has concluded that the poor girl really needed the money.

REMARKABLE MAN.—A man died in Maine the other day named Aaron McKeney, who was 106 years old. He was never sick a day in his life, never received or sent a telegraphic message, never saw a locomotive or steamboat and never subscribed to the MORNING APPEAL until after his hundredth birthday.

ANXIOUS TO GET IN COURT.—Yesterday the Sheriff, who was at the rear of the District Court-room, found a man leaning up against an awning post very much dejected. Mr. Hill, who is a kind hearted and well disposed man, accosted the stranger in sympathetic tones and begged to know what canker worm of trouble gnawed upon his soul.

"The jury's drawn again and I'm left behind," was the reply, as the man swallowed down a sob. "I've lived in Carson twelve years, paid taxes and raised a family and never got on a jury yet."

"That's nothing," said the Sheriff cheerily. "Your time's coming. Come, brace up and don't feel bad. We all have our troubles in this world. I'll take you over to Justice Cary's and tell him how you are fixed perhaps he'll let you get on one of his jury's."

At this the man brightened up and the two men went over and laid the case before the kind old Justice. On hearing the man's story his face assumed a look of genial benevolence, and he was willing to do all in his power to make him happy. "I can't put you on the jury, but I can summon you as a witness. There's a vulgar language case coming up to-day, and we can put you on and ask you questions about the bad character of the accused."

"Anything Judge so long as I can get into court. I believe I'd go on the stand as a mining expert before I'd miss getting mixed up in a trial."

The man was on the stand in the afternoon where he opened the ball with a biographical sketch of his life and stayed in the witness chair two hours before the lawyers found out that he didn't know the first thing about the case. He left the stand reluctantly, and when last seen was begging the Coroner to put him on his next jury.

THE CAT.—There are very few people in the world who would not willingly change places with the house-cat. A cat really has no troubles, and maintains a life of ease and luxury at other people's expense, which throws over the existence of a bank President in the shade. Nine square meals a day, and hours of indolent leisure along side the stove on an eight dollar rug, is the average gait of the cat's occupation. Petted by fair women, pampered by kindly men and all its wants provided for by children. Its only moments of danger are when the midnight boot-jack cleaves the air for its special benefit. But it never hits it. The man don't live who will assert on his honor as a gentleman, that he ever hit a cat with a boot-jack or anything else. These dangers are easily avoided by the agile and thoughtful cat, and are considered by it as the risks which spice and flavor its nocturnal amours. A cat never dies any more than a mule. It haunts houses from generation to generation, and while stalwart men wither with the blight of time and the cares of business, the cat lives on, oblivious of disease, careless of human misery and defiant of time; ever drinking of the spring which rejuvenates its being, while it—[THE APPEAL devil has just come in to announce that about 4 o'clock yesterday morning he blew old Dobson's tom cat to pieces with a shot-gun.] laughs at fate, but a shot-gun lets it out.

SIERRA NEVADA NEWS.—It is rumored that ore has been found 1200 feet north of the Sierra Nevada incline. It is said to be eight feet in width and assaying $90 per ton. How true this is the APPEAL reporter has no means of knowing, but has it from good authority that a few days ago some barren looking stuff was found 900 feet north which assayed $112 per ton. It looked so bad that it was being taken to the water dump, when Ike James assayed it and got the result above stated. If this be true the Sierra Nevada is big enough to cut up into five mines, and the holders of the stock who are now so despondent will see the day when they will realize handsomely on their investment.

THE SAME MAN.—A man who claims to have come down from Lake Bigler, reports several feet of snow in the mountains, and avalanches as thick as blackberries. In his excited imaginations he sees snow slides at every turn and estimates about four regular old fashioned Alpine avalanches to the square mile. A gentleman who has kept posted on the man's movements for some days past asserts that he has been drunk in the rear of a Carson street saloon ever since Tuesday. He is doubtless the same man who reports big conflagrations in the woods in the fall of the year.

A NEW DRAMATIC STAR.—It is reported that Mr. Otto Greenwood contemplates going upon the stage in Shakspearian representation. He has not as yet decided upon the character he will assume, but the role of the apothecary in Romeo and Juliet is one eminently fitted to his abilities. Since the death of "Needles," the Comstock tragedian, by starvation, there has been none who could play the part in the proper style. Mr. Greenwood will of course be obliged to diet himself for a few weeks, but he won't mind that.

ARRAIGNED TO PLEAD.—In the District Court, yesterday, Dick Hyland and Thomas Lovejoy pleaded not guilty to charges of burglary. Harry Butts, Bus Lincoln and Chas. Van Gorder were re-submitted to the Grand Jury. Hyland will be tried on Saturday, March 6th. The indictment against Lovejoy being defective the case was also re-submitted to the Grand Jury.

BRIEF MENTION.

J. M. Dormer is to issue a new paper in Candelaria.

A 50 cent assessment was levied on Belvidere yesterday.

Plummer had a good house in Virginia City last evening.

The strong man of Reno proposes to wrestle Roman style, in Virginia shortly.

The APPEAL acknowledges the receipt of cake from the Ricord-Stone wedding.

Dr. D. Banks McKenzie will positively land his grip sack in Carson this afternoon.

R. D. Ferguson is reported quite well and as robust as ever. Disease will never kill him; he will probably be kicked to death by a Bodie mule.

The ladies and friends of the Methodist Church will give a sociable to-night at the residence of Dr. Herriek. A cordial welcome to all.

The friends of Will. Ricord deny that he eloped with Miss Stone. The marriage ceremony was performed by an Episcopal minister in San Francisco with the full consent of the parents.

A $2 plaster on Utah is just at present having a sickening effect on the stock holders. Oriental and Real del Monte make a modest demand for 50 cents a share from the pockets of the shareholders.

John Gregovich, brother of Mike Gregovich of the Monarch Saloon, left last night to visit his boyhood's home in Austria. Mr. G. leaves a large number of friends in Carson, to wish him God speed on his journey.

In the case of Frevert vs. Elder in the District Court yesterday, N. Soderberg asked that the Sheriff be allowed to withdraw the writ of attachment of January 23rd, 1880, for the purpose of amending the return so as to make him subject to writ in case of V. & T. R. R. vs. Elder out of Justice Court. The order was granted.
